From Earth to the Solar System (FETTSS)

Celebrating NASA's Year of the Solar System, FETTSS is a collection of images that showcase the excitement of planetary exploration—our journey to understand the origin and evolution of the Solar System, and our search for life elsewhere.

The images are at once artistic and informative, weaving together themes in astrobiology, planetary science, and astronomy. Including contributions from backyard astronomers, large telescopes in space, and even point-and-shoot cameras of field researchers, the collection represents the current state of exploration as seen through the eyes of the scientific community.

You are enthusiastically invited to download the images (free of charge!) and use them to create and host an exhibition in your area!
